

February XX, 2007

Dear XXXX:

As the 2007 Air & Waste Management Association (A&WMA) Annual Conference Student Program Coordinator, I would like to extend a personal invitation for you to join us in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania on June 26-29, 2007 for A&WMA's 100th Annual Conference & Exhibition. This is an exciting event you won't want to miss!

The 2007 Student Program contains a variety of networking, professional development, and scholarship competitions. There are a number of events geared specifically toward student attendees:

- Student paper/poster contest with cash prizes and public recognition;
- Three additional cash prizes for the paper/poster contest, specifically for research in sustainable development or pollution prevention topics;
- Social gathering at Bar Louie, located in the Station Square;
- Career tutorial geared toward young professionals with a panel of young professionals experienced industry, consulting, law, government, and academia;
- Deeply discounted conference registration fees;
- Half-price discounts on special events such as the Grand Reception and the Honors & Awards Luncheon;
- Discounted fees for professional development courses at approximately 50% off;
- Opportunities to meet thousands of environmental professionals;
- Opportunities to meet other students;
- And much more!

I encourage you and your students to consider attending this year's Annual Conference to find out what's hot in the environmental field, to connect with environmental professionals, to meet other students, and to have a good time! The staff at the Student Welcome Booth, located in the main registration area, will be able to assist you in making the most of your attendance at the Conference.

Enclosed please find further details about the Student Program at the Conference. Also, you will find information for your students about serving as a monitor to earn registration discounts. Additionally, we would like to strongly encourage you to participate in the Student Paper/Poster Contest at the conference. Student abstracts are due on Friday, March 2, 2007, and guidelines for the contest are enclosed. This is a great way to gain visibility and recognition for your hard work!

Best wishes as you begin the New Year and new semester! Please contact myself, Stephanie Glyptis, or Dr. Viney Aneja with any questions. We look forward to meeting you in Pittsburgh!

Sincerely,
